to pay heavy indemnities to the relatives of the injured husband. When the husband is so inclined, he may take one or more wives, provided that he is wealthy enough to support them. However, the wife controls in marriage, her own inherited property.

When the husband dies, the woman retains only her clothing and returns to her relatives. All the property is divided equally among the children. If they are young, the man's relatives take and raise them, keeping the property in trust. Upon marriage each child receives his share.

RELIGION

The Apayao name for a god is "anito." Now, it is hard for anyone to explain how all the "acts of God" are the activity of one single personality; as some "acts" are benevolent and others are malevolent. The Apayaos believe that different "acts" are the doings of differents anitos, some benevolent and others malevolent. Natural phenomena are explained as being the work of some anito. Each occurrence or activity of a person is governed by some certain anito. Therefore they may number up into the thousands. Thus one is constantly aware of his relations with the anitos, and the Apayao is very religious. For instance if he is setting a trap for wild pig in the forest, he will ask one anito to forgive him for trying to trap the pig; another anito to let the pig be guided into the trap; and another anito that the trap will spring and catch the pig.

Many anitos live in natural objects; but the most prominent ones dwlel in Guynetban in the sky. Each
